

Title: The Walter J. Travis Memorial Scholarship

Deadline: June 1, 2019

Award: $750

Program:

The Walter J. Travis Memorial Scholarship is an annual award given since 2009 to honor the remarkable accomplishments and contributions of Walter J. Travis in the game of golf. In his pioneering career, Travis was a champion amateur golfer, esteemed golf course architect, innovative turf grass expert, and prolific golf journalist. He was founder and editor of one of the most influential golf magazines of his time, The American Golfer. We encourage applicants to explore this site to learn more about the man in whose honor this scholarship has been established.

The Travis Memorial Scholarships are awarded to students pursuing a career in one of the following professions: landscape design/golf course architecture; golf course turf grass management/golf course superintendent; professional golf management, club professional, or sports journalism with a special interest in golf.

The following criteria will be used in the evaluation and judging of all applicants:

Academic record

- Involvement in golf-related interests and activities
- Career goals (Not applicable for students who are applying in the category of “amateur golfer”)
- Extracurricular activities, including volunteer work with student/community organizations; participation in sports and community affairs; jobs held; special interests, and hobbies. We are impressed with those students who have demonstrated a desire to “give back to their community” through volunteer activities.
- For amateur golfers, their record in competition will be a major consideration.
