

ED.D. DEGREE IN PUBLIC SCHOOL ADMINISTRATION

OUR AGGIE MISSION

Outstanding school leaders create transformative schools where all children learn, regardless of student background. Culturally responsive leadership is the key to this success. Now, more than ever, public education needs passionate and committed individuals who are prepared to lead schools for today and tomorrow. The Educational Leadership Program at Texas A&M University has designed its Doctoral (Ed.D.) Program in Public School Administration to meet the varied needs of future school and district leaders serving diverse students. At its core, the program's primary goal is to ensure 21st Century leaders demonstrate commitment to equity, diversity, and social justice through research, policy, and practice.

THE QUALITY OF A TIER I RESEARCH UNIVERSITY WITH THE CONVENIENCE OF SIGNIFICANT DISTANCE LEARNING

If you are a school leader at any level and interested in leading successful schools and districts for all children, our department encourages you to consider Texas A&M University. An Ed.D. Degree in Public School Administration affords you the advantages you need in landing the right leadership position and facilitating your success as a transformative leader in public education. Consistently ranked in U.S. News and World Report's top 20 school leadership programs, Texas A&M University is one of a few public universities in Texas that has earned the highly coveted reputation as a Tier I research institution, affording our students the powerful combination of a research-based program steeped in a commitment to meeting the needs of Texas' diverse students. This means the Ed.D. Program has many faculty members who are nationally well known and well respected, more than any other program in Texas.

WHY IS THIS PROGRAM RIGHT FOR ME?

The design of the Ed.D. Doctoral Program in Public School Administration makes it possible for working professionals to obtain their Ed.D. Doctoral Degree, the premier degree for school leaders, while continuing to work fulltime. This program includes some all online classes, some hybrid classes, and some in-person classes. The online courses are delivered fully online, and the hybrid courses will include a combination of online and traditional face-to-face delivery. Each semester's instruction will include only four to seven Saturdays. The face-to-face classes are taught at the main Texas A&M University campus in College Station, but always on Saturdays. We anticipate students can complete their course work and earn their Ed.D. Degree in Public School Administration in three years of course work and one year of dissertation work, while continuing to work fulltime. When finished, you will have your doctorate from a premier university and can accomplish any career goal you have. In addition, this program is one of the few nationally that centrally emphasize culturally responsive leadership and success with all students.
